

This is absurd. It is not the job of our elected officials to limit the rights of American businesses. The services they provide are paid for and should be allowed. If the big media finds them a threat then they need to improve their services. This issue is the same as satellite television. I am unable to receive around the clock provider of weather and traffic in my car without attempting to watch TV while I drive. This is not a rational solution and as such I selected the alternative; the alternative being XM radio. The current radio stations are flooded with propaganda, commercials, and music failing to provide constant news, weather and traffic in the same manner XM does. This does not satisfy my demand. XM and Sirius have found a niche and other companies are attempting to cry to the government because they don't want to share. Satellite television has come around and now offers localized television. Bear in mind that I have the ability to sit in my living room and be entertained and gather informative information with the option of selecting national and local information. With the radio I should be able to do the same. XM offers me this and if the radio did the same maybe this issue would not have risen.
